Regular Board of Trade Meeting Held

Board of Trade meeting was held, Monday, June 10th in the Town Hall. Due to the busy season only a small attendance was present.

Because of C. O. Asplund's work in the U.I.D. he found it necessary to resign as President of the Board of Trade, and his resignation was accepted with a vote of thanks for his labors.

C. D. Compton, who has been vice-president was elected President, and James E. Meeks was elected vice-president, the rest of the officers remaining the same.

Most of the time of the meeting was taken up in reports and discussion of the Stampede, and the afternoon program was presented and accepted by the meeting, the prize list this year totalling $4,830.00 for the riding, roping and races. While the prize list is rather heavy, the Committee felt that in order to get keen competition good purses were essential, and they passed the program, with the faith that the public would support the Stampede in sufficient numbers to pay off all incurred expenses of the show.

Several bills were passed and ordered paid, and a report given on the sale of Caragana by Mr. Perks, showed a good balance for the Board of Trade in this enterprise.

Meeting adjourned at 10 p.m.

MUNICIPAL ROAD WORK

All municipal tax payers in the unit of which F. W. Romeril is in charge, are asked to remember that by getting in touch with him, it may be possible for them to work off 40% of their arrears of taxes (not current taxes) on the roads of the unit, and that where necessary the Council will advance up to 20% of the amount of the work done in cash so that farmers can buy feed for their horses. This latter concession, however will only be possible in cases of absolute necessity.

This is an opportunity that most farmers can ill afford to pass up, and those interested should get in touch with Fred at once.

Lethbridge unemployed were on strike over the week-end because of the alignment of relief schedules, and Wednesday Calgary tax payers threatened to go on strike because of the heavy burden they are asked to bear in the tax problems and the cost of relief. If tax payers quit where will the unemployed be fed from.

Meeks Brothers shipped 150 head of two year old white faces to the British market on Thursday. They were certainly a fine looking bunch of beef.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Roy Stone, Saturday morning June 9th, a son. Mother and son are doing fine, and Roy, we'll say "and it's a boy."

When gasoline exploded while she was cleaning gloves, Josephine Olive Short, 23, of Calgary, was so severely burned that she died in hospital despite all that medical aid could do.

Second Ward Temple Excursion

The ward Temple Day of the Raymond Second Ward will be held Thursday, June 21st, and the Ward Genealogical Committee desire a good crowd at the Temple for that day.

Those who have no transportation for themselves, are asked to get in touch with members of the Committee who will assist them in finding ways of getting there. No special sessions are being arranged at present, and with the afternoon session at 3:30 people will be able to get home early in the evening, in fact almost before dark. Support the Committee in this excursion.

TRI-STAKE GENEALOGICAL CONVENTION JULY 8-9

A Genealogical Convention of the Alberta, Lethbridge and Taylor Stake will be held, Saturday and Sunday, July 8 and 9 in Magrath, when representatives of the Genealogical Society of Utah will be present, and an interesting and educational program carried out regarding genealogy and research work.

Details will be printed when available of the proceedings of the Convention.

News Notes

Magistrate Low of Cardston was here on Monday on official business.

Preserving Strawberries were selling locally at the week-end for $1.95 per case, which is very low for Strawberries.

The dance at the Pavilion Wednesday night was not very well attended, probably due to the cool night which soon chilled a person when not dancing.

Frank Leavitt was the holder of the lucky ticket at the Capitol last Saturday night, and walked home with the $20.00 pretty good return on the investment he made.

The schedule of the Baseball league is printed elsewhere in this issue. Read it over and save it. Give the boys your support in this interesting and exciting sport.

The two Raymond wards are holding a Joint Party on the Ramonion Floor next Wednesday. It is the regular party of the Second Ward, and the First Ward Scouts are sharing the proceeds for their Scout camp later in the summer. A large time is promised, and a good crowd is expected for the evening entertainment.

Hurricanes, cloudbursts and landslides brought death and destruction to San Salvador over the week, preliminary reports putting the death rate at 2,000. No definite figures were available at that time, but a recent survey reported death and destruction on every hand, with whole villages wiped out in some places.

According to reports of the road work to be done in Albert this summer, the Lethbridge Cardston highway will receive another coat of gravel, which will put this piece of road in very good condition. Wouldn't now be a good time to go after the graveling from Raymond to Craddock. We would have the support of all the commercial travellers on this section on the project.

Raymond Loses To Hardieville 4-2

Playing their regular league game with Hardieville Wednesday afternoon, the local nine came out on the short end of a 4-2 score, after eight innings.

A nearly airtight ball, the visitors scoring three of their runs in the first frame of the game. Nielson and Henry were the battery for the local nine, and after the team settled down in the second inning, the visitors scored only once in the third, the rest of the game being practically one two three and out.

Hardieville had Lewis on the mound, and Susnar behind the bat, and these two made a strong combination. Raymond scored two in the second inning, Henry and S. Jones bringing in the runs. After this Raymond failed to get a man in, although they had men on bases several times.

The lineup on the teams was as follows:

Hardieville: Lazaruk, r.f., S. Smerek, l.f., Pretunia, 2nd, G. Smerek, 3rd, Lewis, p. Susnar, c. Peta, 1st, Milner, cf, J. Peta, ss.

Raymond: C. Nalder 2nd, W. VanOrman, 3rd, D. O'Brien, 1st, Henry, c. Rolison lf, G. Kirkham, cf, Nielson, p.

John O'Brien handled the indicator.

The locals go to Cardston Friday night to play a postponed game with the Temple City crew.

"Ray" says a double-header is laid up with New Dayton to be played here on Dominion Day. This should provide plenty of interest for the fans.

WEEKLY LETTER

SUMMER-FALLOWING

Summer-fallowing as a means of saving moisture from one year for use in the next was discovered early in the agricultural history of the Canadian prairies and is credited to the late Dr. Angus Mackay, who later became widely known in the west as the first superintendent of the Experimental Farm at Indian Head. The discovery dates back to the time of the Rebellion when a number of settlers left their farms in work to earn some cash hauling supplies for the government forces engaged in suppressing the rebels. When they returned to their homesteads it was too late to seed any crop and they were faced with the problem of handling their idle land. The soil was moist and ploughing even in midsummer seemed the natural thing to do. This was done. The outstanding yields obtained from these fields the following year, which was dry, is now history. These increased yields were attributed by Mackay to the extra moisture stored and so the idea of summer-fallowing on the prairies was conceived.

Since that time summer-fallowing has become universal in dry land farming and as conceived by Angus McKay the purpose of summer-fallowing is still to conserve moisture. However our conception of the summer-fallow practice and the application of its principles have since undergone some important changes which need, it seems, to be more widely and clearly understood, because the summer-fallow, while indispensable in dry land farming, is responsible for the widespread prevalence of soil drifting that is actually threatening the very existence of agriculture in some parts of the prairies.

Many farmers will recall the dust mulch theory that was advocated so strongly at one time by some dry farming enthusiasts. This idea was soon disproved however because a dry mulch was found unnecessary in preventing loss of moisture from a soil and besides a dust mulch is too dangerous to use on account of soil drifting.

Reaping down weeds is the main thing in saving moisture and preventing soil drifting is no less important. The modern fallow practice is therefore to keep weeds in check with as few cultivations as possible so as not to crush or pulverize the soil more than is absolutely necessary especially where ploughed or bare fallow is used.

Heavy combine stubble is best handled with the ploughless fallow using the one-way disc in May and again in June when weeds show say 2 or 3 inches of growth. The one-way disc is not used for the July cultivation if there is any danger of destroying the trash covering, in which case either the duck foot or red weeder are used if possible.

Binder or thin combine stubble needs to be handled with great care in ploughless fallowing because the soil of a ploughless fallow slakes down to a drifting mulch very readily and so must depend on a trash covering for protection against drifting. Some have successfully conducted ploughless fallows on binder stubble by using only the duck foot and red weeder for cultivating and a few have been able to use the one-way disc for the first stroke.

Where it is dangerous to use a ploughless fallow because of the absence of sufficient stubble or other material to form an adequate trash covering the ploughed fallow is then necessary. The common practice has been to cultivate in May, plough in June and cultivate again in July. A quite radical change in this procedure that has much in its favour in controlling soil drifting is to cultivate to control weeds until mid-July and then plough. Summer-fallows are not worked during August if there is danger of pale western cutworm infestation.

Mrs. Dean Holland is spending a few days visiting with relatives in Cardston.

News Notes

Born to Mr. and Mrs. L. Carter, Thursday, June 14th, a baby girl. Mother and babe are doing fine.

Quite a large number of Raymond people attended the Al Jolson Circus in Lethbridge on Thursday. It was a good show, a good menagerie, and the kiddies as usual got a great kick out of it all. The prices were pretty high for these times, with the result that the evening performance found the "Big Top" only about half full.

Chuck Gardiner, goalie of the past seven years, and one of the Chicago Black Hawks for the most popular figures in national hockey, died in a Winnipeg Hospital Thursday from a brain hemorrhage. He was 30 years old.

TOWN COUNCIL MEETING

With a short quorum present, the Town Council held a brief session last night and only transacted necessary business, leaving the questions of painting the grandstand and putting in footings, for final decision on Sunday.

A request for $40 for Children's Sports, and for the Band at these sports was sanctioned.

A report on the water extensions was presented, and accepted, the report showing that the work was completed along the block east to Milton Strang's. Reports on roads and road work was also given, showing the installation of several new culverts around the town, and the raising of grades on several side streets. More work is planned for the next week or two.

The bills were passed and ordered paid, and the question of the improvements at the Stampede Grounds will be settled at a special meeting Sunday, when estimates of all the work will be presented.

The Committee on the Program for the Dominion Day Celebration met at the Town Hall Sunday last and went into the organization of the morning program and sports. Mayor Meeks occupied the Chair.

Others present were: Mr. and Mrs. T. Geo. Wood, C. D. Compton, Dr. Leech, M. T. King, John H. Blackmore, and J. O. Hicken who acted as Secretary.

It was decided to hold Children's Sports in Victoria Park from 9:30 to 10:30 a.m., with T. Geo. Wood as Sports Chairman.

A Public program will be held in the Stake House from 10:30 to 11:30 a.m. at which an outside speaker will deliver a patriotic speech of about 20 minutes duration. Mr. Compton has charge of this.

The Committee to arrange the remainder of the program is made up of J. J. Picken, Chairman, and the Presidents of the two Ward M.I.A.s.

$15.00 in prizes was decided on for the Children's Sports, and on a motion being passed, T. Geo. Wood was asked to meet the Council Thursday night to ask for an appropriation of $40 to pay for the Band, the outside speaker and the Children's Sports.

Decided to ask the Veterans to attend the Morning meeting in a body, and Mr. Compton agreed to take this up with the Vets.

GRAND OPENING OF "WONDER BAR" NEXT WEEK

Next week the grand opening of the First National mammoth musical and dramatic spectacle, "Wonder Bar," to be shown in this city at the Capitol theatre. The picture is based on the internationally famous play that was the sensation of Europe a few years ago when it played before king and commoner in Continental capitals. Again it was a sensation on the American stage with Al Jolson in the stellar role.

Al Jolson in the film version plays the same role as an entertainer de luxe. Other members of the stellar array include Kay Francis, Dolores Del Rio, Ricardo Cortez, Dick Powell and Hal LeRoy.

In addition there are three hundred beautiful chorus girls picked from 9,000 applicants who dance and sing clad in diaphanous gowns for the gigantic spectacles created and staged by Busby Berkeley, the wizard of musical ensembles. Berkeley, who also staged the numbers for "42nd Street," "Footlight Parade," and "Gold Diggers of 1933" is said to have surpassed even the gigantic spectacles in these pictures by the uniqueness, beauty and magnificence of his new conceptions.

These spectacles spice the dramatic production which has been staged on a grand scale, the locale being a night club of gay Paris, the story centering about the entertainers and their romances.

"The FIRESIDE" PHILOSOPHER

By ALFRED BIGGS

Time dries all tears.
Don't advertise your good deeds.
We generally get what we deserve.
Say neither too much nor too little.
Advice is the cheapest kind of help.
Only a small part of what we learn stays with us.
Nature provides strength enough for most burdens.
Deeds are greater than words, but thoughts can be greater than both.

to everyone something that itself and a word to the men devoting so much time to getting it under way, would be a splendid thing now and again. But whether or not you stretch yourself to this point, at least make up your mind to being a real fellow on Dominion Day and contributing your bit to seeing the show go over BIG, so that prizes can be paid and other expenses can be discharged without any worry on the part of the committees.

IT'S YOUR STAMPEDE.

PUSH IT.

Before many days now, the big event of the year will be here, viz., Raymond's annual Stampede and Race Meet. If you haven't made up your mind to support this event you should do so right now. For a month past a number of your fellow citizens have been quietly, but consistently and persistently working, getting all the preliminary work done, arrangements made, advertising done, programs drawn up, and the stage all set for a celebration that will make history for us.

Now, folks, the rest is very largely up to you. When merchants have faith enough in your Town to donate $100. to advertising expenses of the celebration, when your Town Council goes to the expense of putting the grounds and buildings in shape, and when citizens donate gratis livestock enough to put the show over in a big way are you as a citizen going to be small enough to let them down, and let the show run down at the heel, for the sake of the two dollars or so it will take to get you and your family into the Stampede grounds? We hope not.

The sponsors of the celebration have shown their unbounded faith in you to the extent of all these things mentioned, and have drawn up a program which calls for nearly $500 in prize money alone, in fact, one of the best programs, with the largest purses of any small town show in Alberta, and surpassing many of the big town lists. The show has always been worth all that has ever been chartered for it, but in view of conditions, and the desire of the Committee to give people a good time on our natal day, admission prices

WAR AND PEACE IN LATIN AMERICA

While 60,000 men face one another in what is called the biggest engagement of the Gran Chaco war, and while munitions makers face an aroused world opinion, there comes the happy news that another war has been settled by gentlemen around a table thousands of miles from the scene of action. Representatives of the league of Nations and Brazil and the Foreign Ministers of Peru and Colombia deserve the credit for ending the war over Leticia. In Rio de Janeiro, for many months, men have wrestled heroically to prevent another outbreak of hostilities in that section of the upper Amazon.

Both nations involved have pledged to observe all existing treaties, to create tribunals of arbitration and appeal, and to adjust old disputes concerning sanitation, river navigation, customs duties and the education of the Indians in separate accords. Thus the ways of peace again win and what has been so tragic an aspect of the Gran Chaco war is avoided. Few have stopped to consider that these wars touch the lives of thousands of Indians whose first introduction to western civilization comes, very often in trenches and under the light of bursting bombs.

When it is recalled that only a few weeks ago both Peru and Colombia were feverishly preparing their military machines, and that popular opinion in the nations involved was being emotionally raised to war heat, the achievement at Rio looms larger. War between Peru and Colombia must have involved more than half of South America. Brazil and Ecuador could hardly have avoided being drawn into the maelstrom and Venezuela would have been hard pressed not to become involved.

The Indians of the Amazonian selvas, the foot-loose inhabitants of the forests and rivers of a rich region, have received their first lesson in the ways of really

What About Social Credit in Canada?

This series is an explanation of the Douglas Social Credit Plan. Mr. Williams, (W.) a Social Credit advocate, is explaining the plan to his friend, Mr. Jones (J.). The scene is Mr. Williams' home, and the conversation takes place during an evening visit.

By following this series to the conclusion the reader will clearly understand the problem which faces Canada.

NUMBER 18

W. "It is something like the term 'real wages.' If the average cost of living stands at the index figure of 100 and at the same time a man received $20 per week, he will not benefit if he receives a raise to $30 a week if at the same time prices have risen so that the cost of living has an index figure of 150."

J. "What has that got to do with Social Credit?"

W. "Oh nothing in particular. I just used it as an illustration to show that the word inflation is not to be feared, and that bankers call inflation may have no effect on the average citizen. But to come back to Social Credit, you can see that prices could not rise if they were regulated by the agreement between the producers and the government."

J. "But the National Dividend by itself would produce inflation — that is, according to your own definition, the increase in money without an increase in goods — this would cause prices to rise."

W. "Certainly and that is why the National Dividend can not be applied alone. Social Credit consists of two things, a National Dividend and the Just Price factor, and if you leave out either of these it is not Douglas Social Credit. The Just Price is the check on rising prices for you have seen that the prices have been marked below financial cost and at an average rate of profit."

J. "But here is another thought. Suppose this is all right technically. Suppose that it does not produce inflation and that it is a scientific way of adjusting purchasing power to the capacity of production, there are still other things to be considered. If you are going to do this, everybody a dividend, you won't work."

W. "Why not? Do you mean to tell me that if you had a dividend of $10 a week you would refuse a job paying $20 a week so that altogether you would have an income of $30 a week?"

J. "Well, I don't say that I would; but there are lots of lazy folks who would be satisfied with $10 a week for nothing."

W. "What of it? Would you refuse a plan that would give economic security and do away with all the human distress that is caused by the present economic system — would you refuse this because a few shiftless loafers would quit work? Would you penalize ninety normal individuals for the sake of forcing ten loafers into activity? I have heard this objection before, and I have a lesson which I cannot expound to everyone, but I can use it with you, Jones, for you are a professing Christian. Do you remember the episode in the book of Genesis where Abraham pleaded with God to spare Sodom? How first he started with the assumption of at least fifty righteous men and finally had brought the number down to ten righteous men? And you remember that God said "I will not destroy it for ten's sake." Apply that same principle here and you will see that you are reversing the case. You are saying that you are not willing to give plenty and security to the bulk of ordinary citizens for fear that a handful of unworthy people would benefit undeservedly. You cannot support this stand with Christian principles.

But, leaving aside that argument, even from the standpoint of common sense it would not be reasonable to say that everyone must go on suffering because by this plan a few might benefit undeservedly. In any case, let me remind you that scientific progress is year by year diminishing the amount of human labor required to satisfy our needs."

J. "All right, we'll leave that consideration for a minute and take up another objection. Under Social Credit would the people be any happier or live better lives?"

W. "Now you are sliding around to a moral viewpoint again. We must get it clear what Social Credit is, and what it is not. Try to get it clearly understood that our economic system is largely a matter of arithmetic and that we have been making a mistake in our figures. By adjusting that mistake we shall make it possible for our system to function but all other considerations are apart from this fact. You ask if people will be happier not necessarily; happiness is a matter that depends on education that, owing to the changed conditions of our industrial individual. We have every-thing and economic life, there will be removed many factors which today cause suffering, unhappiness and vice. That is, we are doing our best to make it possible for people to be happy as far as external conditions affect their happiness."

Then you raise the moral issue. Here again it is nothing to do with Social Credit does not do away with or supersede these activities of the human spirit.

GOING ORNERY

One word which is very expressive and frequently heard these days is the word 'ornery'. One hears it on every side, either as a charge against oneself or against society. "I am ornery," "thou art ornery," "they are ornery."

"Orneryness" is an outward and visible sign of an inward spiritual state. It is a condition aggravated by grass hoppers, drought, governments, and such distress. But after all, it starts with ourselves, is endured by ourselves and those whom we are in contact, without in any way altering those external irritations which aggravate it. There is no denying that there is sufficient provocation for ruffled dispositions. Disappointments and discouragements have hounded most people until the fountains of laughter, spontaneity and geniality are beginning to run down. We are growing shorter in temper, quicker to imagine slights that do not exist, taking grim pleasure in disagreement, and right on our toes to buck anything anytime.

But after all, what does it get us? Nothing except the reputation of being good people to avoid. Most of our happiness comes from our ability to live on friendly, harmonious terms with ourselves and those with whom we are in contact.

Yet we vent our general discouragement on those nearest to us, who are in no sense responsible for the condition of things, and who also have their troubles quite as serious as our own. When we yield to the natural but very disagreeable habit of "orneryness" we bring more unhappiness to entirely innocent people whom we really like and depend upon, and more unhappiness to ourselves.

One of our local people says he makes a tremendous effort to hold steady, by doing his best in everything for which he is himself responsible, and refusing to worry about anything else. This is a philosophy which few of us have yet been able to attain. If obligations were exacted on this basis, it would be more easy to accept calmly the blows of fate. But unfortunately one's best is not good enough at times to meet the demands made upon us.

But most of us could discipline. You won't deny that they are largely influenced by external conditions. Social Credit will provide them with conditions more conducive to their cultivation."

J. "I suppose that would apply to politics too."

W. "Yes there is nothing in the application of Social Credit that automatically rules out any political theory except that we are firmly against coercion of the individual. If, after adopting Social Credit, a country wished to socialize certain industries and services there is nothing in Social Credit to stop this being done. Our only objection is that in most cases it would be entirely unnecessary for Social Credit would achieve the object for which Socialism clamours — the economic security of the worker and a greatly increased share of the national industry which can waste natural resources like forests. They are a valuable asset to the country and the country should make it its business to see that in the normal operation of lumbering, etc., no unnecessary waste occurs. The sole reason for nationalization of any kind would be efficiency, or obvious expediency."

line and watch ourselves much more sternly than we do. We could go farther than we do in suppressing personal moods of discouragement and orneryness. We can refrain from adding our touch of gloom to the general scene. We could keep in mind that unless we succeed in keeping our own small sphere as happy, as courageous and normal as possible, there is not much hope of the larger human relationships within nations or between nations being peaceful and unselfish and healthy. — Vulcan Advocate.

Exodus Planned By Farmers East Jenner

Their crops ruined by drouth, soil drifting, cutworms, and grasshoppers, hundreds of farmers between Jenner and Empress are this week holding meetings at many points to discuss with an official of the Alberta government plans for a general exodus to other and more fruitful districts.

Just returned from a motor trip through the sun-scorched, insect-ravaged areas, Sergt. J. N. Cawsey, R.C.M.P., and Harvey Smith, local insurance and real estate agent report almost complete destruction of crops along the fifty mile route from Jenner through Atlee, Majestic, Buffalo, Bindloss, to Empress. East of Empress conditions are said to be equally as bad. Another week of rainless weather and the few remaining green wheat fields will wither and die.

Twenty four years ago these farmers settled the newly-opened homestead country and with the ambition of youth they tackled the job of conquering the soil. Today they are beaten, middle aged men, staggering under nature's latest blow which climaxes a six-year battle with the scourge of the western wheatlands — drouth.

Many of these farmers have fine homes, good barns, and well fenced farms. They learned the art of thrift many years ago in their early battles with the stubborn elements, and when they harvested a good crop in 1928 they husbanded their substance.

Through five lean years they have scrimped and saved; some found it necessary to apply for government relief. Stunned by the most recent calamity, they are now forced to give up the fight and seek green pastures elsewhere. Where to go and how to get there are questions big-eyed farmers are asking at the meetings. — Bassano Mail.

ALL-BRAN MADE HIM REGULAR AS CLOCK

Delicious Cereal Corrected His Constipation

We quote from his voluntary and enthusiastic letter: "After reading your advertisement, I decided to use ALL-BRAN. I had been taking pills right along. But now I don't have to take pills."

"I take ALL-BRAN every morning, and am as regular as the clock. It has done me a lot of good." — Stephen Higgins (address furnished upon request).

Common constipation frequently causes headaches, loss of appetite and energy. Yet this condition can be overcome, usually, by eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN.

Tests show this delicious cereal provides "bulk" and vitamin B to aid elimination. ALL-BRAN is also rich in iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in leafy vegetables. Inside the body, it forms a soft mass. Gently this clears out the intestinal wastes.

Isn't this safer than taking harmful patent medicines? Two tablespoons daily are usually sufficient. Chronic cases, with each meal. If seriously ill, see your doctor. ALL-BRAN makes no claim to be a "cure-all."

Enjoy ALL-BRAN as a cereal with milk or cream. Use it also in making fluffy muffins, and breads, etc. Get the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

only and there is possibility of a short crop of hay. It is feared that late frosts have damaged small fruits in some districts. Province of Ontario. With practically no precipitation during the past month, fall waters, of which according to Government estimates, 30% of the average sown was winter-killed is backward and the crop is spotty. rains over most of the western plains during the past few days. These rains have alleviated deterioration from drought, heat and high winds, and have checked grasshopper invasions, improving the general situation which was becoming critical over the southern portions of the three Provinces. In Quebec Province warm weather and rain are badly needed to promote growth. As a whole spring operations have been carried out under favourable conditions and in general the acreage planted is larger than was the case last year. In Ontario seeding of spring grains has been completed. In all districts rains are urgently needed. In the Maritime Provinces the season is a week or so late, and there also rains with warm weather are required. In British Columbia growth has been rapid under favourable conditions, and crops continue to be ahead of three weeks ago.

Details follow: Prairie Provinces. Alberta. Northern Area. Wheat is showing healthy growth and is made and conditions satisfactory. Southern Area. The crop, which was damaged by May drought has been benefited and the grasshopper plague has been checked by recent rains. Western Area. Seeding is nearing completion. Wheat in the north is making good progress, and the shortage of pasture in the foothills has been alleviated by heavy rains. The sugar beet crop is well advanced. Saskatchewan Northern Area. Germination is uneven and growth slow. The outlook has been improved by recent rains over the area, but damage has been serious from soil drying, drought and excessive heat, while extensive grasshopper ravages are feared. Manitoba. Seeding is completed with the exception of former crops. Conditions are favourable in the north and deterioration has been checked in central and southern districts by recent rains. The situation continues critical in the south-west in district and grasshoppers constitute a serious menace.

Province of Quebec. Seeding of early grains is practically completed and planting of fodder crops and potatoes is well under way. Meadows which suffered from winter-killing are in fair condition. ## SAFER HEADLIGHTS

With motor cars travelling at high speed each year, the need for powerful illumination has increased. At the same time the need for properly protecting oncoming drivers from dangerous and illegal glare has increased. Automobile engineers have met this double problem in the 1934 models by multi beam combination for country, city and passing which eliminates glare and yet provides sufficient light where it is most needed. For country driving a strong beam from each light stretches far ahead and spreads, each side of the road. When passing approaching cars the left hand headlight is depressed to flood an area close in front at a level below the eyes of the approaching driver. The beam from the right hand headlight is thrown ahead as before with that portion that would shine down the left-hand side of the road masked off by the lens. This provides a strong beam that will illuminate objects on the right side of the road, Wainwright Star.

Meadows are short and indications point to a hay crop considerably below average. Planting of corn is progressing satisfactorily under favourable conditions, with a large acreage being sown this year on account of the hay shortage and the poor condition of pasture. The weather is delaying tobacco planting, but the plants are reported in good condition. While orchards suffered severely from the extreme cold of the past winter, surviving apple trees show promise.

Maritime Provinces. Seeding in the southern section is completed and well under way in the north, planting of potatoes has commenced under favourable conditions with prospects for an increased acreage over last year.

Winter damage to apple trees is now reported to be less than at first feared, prospects so far are favourable. Small fruits in some sections have suffered from last frosts.

Province of British Columbia. Seeding is practically completed and germination has been satisfactory. Hay is expected to yield an above average crop and cutting of alfalfa is about to commence. Strawberries are moving to market and a yield of 90% of average is indicated. Field crops and small fruits are progressing satisfactorily. Fruit trees are in good condition, but the set has not been up to expectations and a lighter than average apple crop is now in prospect. Pests are being well controlled.
